NO ELECTION PLANNED, BUT DEFINITELY SAYS AT RALLY

Highlights and Low Downs

By ERNEST COWPER

Howdy folks!
Spot news despatch says that the bagpipes have been adopted by the Royal Flying Corps and that each flight will have its piper. And there's not an old soldier who ever laid beside a highland regiment that won't agree it's a capital idea. If John McNeill isn't listening, I'll make a motion the flying corps be given a monopoly.

And speakers of music, a violin flier in Red Deer says I can tell him what he's doing. The composer who filed "May Dawn" from the Swanee River is an elaborate to Devereaux's music. I think he did it in humor, and certainly there's no musician who doesn't hope some day it will be a tune too famous to forget.

English counsel who obtained Mrs. Wallis Warfield's divorce for her addressing the Canadian Bar Association at Toronto yesterday, is a M. J. M. O'NEILL SATISFIED THE SPIRIT OF JUSTICE IN CANADA, IS THE SAME AS ITS COUNTERPART IN ENGLAND.

NOW WAS THAT GUY GIVING US A HAND OR THROWING A BRICK?

Also that was quite a frightful thing of Cleveland, Ohio, when he said "Everybody is a potential killer. I've never killed anybody myself, but I frequently get satisfaction reading the obituary column."

Several more are again being in the land, or are they just the password to the B.C. Climate Club? The last one, coming from the oldsters-trail rusted maverick, is the latest in the series, and still remains 100 per cent ferocious. Perhaps it is that the middle generation never had a chance to become weather proof, deprived as it was of the lot of the oldsters, through those lovely warm days when they were sleeping up the mountain, as the oldsters are, as they are, as they are.

"Who will they hear, Premier Patten's calls," reads a headline in a Vancouver paper.

It never fails. But have plenty and you'll get more. But need one more in the sack.

Financial experts say the increasing price of Canadian wheat in Toronto is a sign of prosperity.

The country will be entirely recovered when nobody can afford to pay the rent.

Hollywood producers are looking for more and more "hot" material for their "hot" picture plots. In the future, it may be to have her job.

It might be an adroit but not a right one. The "hot" picture plots, either, while waiting for specimens, they capture each other.

Famous last words: "If you don't like me, you're not in a romance, why don't you take your wife into your confidence?"

Grande Prairie Hotel Riot Of Floral Color

Exhaustive to Edmonton Bulletin
GRANDE PRAIRIE, Aug. 24.—The riot of the Grande Prairie hotel was a riot of color in the Grande Prairie hotel, which was the first flower show of the Grande Prairie District Horticultural Society.

Crowds thronged the room to see the wonderful display of flowers and plants which ranged from roses, dahlias and gladioli to pinks, peonies and many other flowers.

The flower show was a success, and the exhibition which included several musical varieties, C. M. Clarke of Thorpe Creek also a display from his lovely garden.

The show was to have been held on Saturday but was postponed on account of rain.

Aberhart Paid High Tribute by Members Of His Government

Minister of Agriculture Declares Financial Powers Have Stranglehold On People of Alberta

Asserting that the financial powers had a stranglehold on Alberta that the government was going to loosen and contending that if an election were held in Alberta today the present government would be returned with greater support than in 1935, Hon. D. R. Mulren, minister of agriculture, in addressing a Social Credit rally at the Alberta Avenue Community hall on Monday night, stated that the government was determined to free the people from their economic slavery.

The minister called for a stand, not only of the government, but of the people, to free the people from their economic slavery.

Looking Them Over

By Jack Kelly
It's On Again!
Dog Craze
Fight Pictures

SO FAR as I can discover we men have only two habits left which women have not yet been able to ape—smoking pipes and laughing at Danie Fashen. Despite the girl's efforts to obscure their inferiority complex under a masculine masquerade, there are none of them that can take ten good drags from a well-seasoned pipe without turning green around the gills. Some of them will try to kid you that fashions are just a laugh to them and that they wouldn't care to bowing to the whims of some male dreamer with a French name who happens to think that this should be worn and that should be tucked in the paragon row. But just give any of these independent ladies a basketful and in a few hours she will have bought exactly what Pierre Chou-Fardi created for the Duke of Bligh.

Before Naomi Lang became alarmed and thinks that I am trying to bust into her society pants, it should be explained that I'm just warming up to review the sewer crabs that are now sweeping the dog world on this continent. Fashen have been fondly thinking during the depressive years that the horrible cramp in pocketbooks had definitely wiped out the cock-eyed crabs that made the great American news front into a nut house bazaar, but unfortunately people are still the same old same old and the minute they get some cash in their hands again the same old daffy ideas are out.

You just don't amount to a bowl of beans in dogdom this season unless you either own a Puli or Basenji—have placed an order for one or the other. A couple years ago if you wanted to prove that you had penthouse class, you simply stroled down the avenue with a Kuvant, Rotweiler or Bouvier on a leash. To appear in public today with one of these breeds would simply end your social career, my dear!

There is no one looking up over these breeds as encyclopedias—it would take a newspaper with ten full columns to keep up to the minute in the fashionable dog world. "Pulitis" is the nearest any encyclopedias comes to the modern Puli and Puli isn't what it sounds like—it's a little town in India. A friend of mine who once lived in India would insist however that the name is quite apt, especially if you happen to be appreciating Puli with the wind blowing in your face.

Blame Them On The Pharaohs

IT SEEMS that the time being at least that the Pharaohs will have to take the rap for perpetrating the Basenji massacre. This breed has been recently listed back in the 12th Egyptian dynasty. Before some eagle-eyed reader grabs his pen to tell me that the 12th dynasty were not Pharaohs, let me assure him that I don't give a hoot whether they were or not.

The point is that the ancestors of these modern Basenjis may have watched the building of the pyramids and the sphinxes and considered them quite an innovation—never dreaming that future centuries would bring such conveniences as fire hydrants and telephone poles.

After this glamorous past in the Basenji's family tree, these dogs disappeared from history. Somehow or other a Congo tribe got some of them and there in the heart of dark Africa they played with poly-lytle Africans, learned of respect, became aware with woe and carried on their never-ending feud with fleas.

But during these centuries of obscurity, the Basenjis gradually acquired the characteristics that make them as much a mystery to the present—the bark was bred right out of them. That is how they got their present name, for the word "basenji" means "barkless dog." The average jungle gentleman is likely to meet plenty of gruff if he goes wandering around with a barking dog. It will attract lions and killing every warrior and at the same time scare away worthless game. It is more than likely that the bark was bred out of these dogs more through the use of a club than selective breeding.

Anyhow, the Basenjis have come from squallid Congo hills to Park Avenue penthouses in a single leap. Here in the money now, although by next spring he will probably be back in the ash can again.

The Foreigners Have "It"

THE astute Staffordshire is another dog that rose from the gutters and became a single breed. Ask any Old Country dog man about Staffordshire and he will tell you that they used to be considered nothing but mongrels, just the kind of men who spend big money for ratty dogs and not concerned about the breed.

The American Kennel Club has a strange complex. It will recognize almost any sort of foreign race as a distinct breed after three or four generations can be traced, but it will not recognize new breeds developed on this continent. The root fault is as complex. This dog was originally a fox hound, a direct descendant of a pack that General Lafayette gave George Washington. However, they have been bred into a distinct type, some hounds will only chase coons and will not run a fox, whereas the hounds will not follow a coon track. Yet you can only register a coon hound by calling it a fox hound.

Fight Picture For Rialto

NO MATTER what the result of Thursday's fight between Fary and Louisa happens to be, there are going to be thousands of folks around Edmonton who will want to see for themselves how Tompkins Tommy slipped up against the U.S. battler. The evidence will be produced at the Rialto theatre starting Thursday afternoon, August 21. The film will run for four days and will be produced on the same high standard as the recent Breakneck-Louis pictures which the Rialto also ran.

defending champion who posted a 76 yesterday. Lower left is smiling Frank Stratton of Brooklyn who led for low honors Monday with Arthur Doering of Chicago. Both shot 71's. Upper right is Sandy Somerville, Canadian amateur champ and former U.S. title, who carded a 77 in the first day of play. Lower right is Ken Black, starry young Vancouverer, who also turned in a 77.

Strafaci-Doering Pacing Shotmakers Posting 71 Scores

Sandy Somerville, Ken Black Are Leading Canadians; Several Starry Shots Place Far Behind Leaders

ALDERWOOD COUNTRY CLUB, Portland, Ore., Aug. 24—Frank Strafaci, curly-haired Brooklyn, N.Y., youth, and Arthur L. Doering, Jr., Chicago, led for the lead in the first qualifying round of the United States amateur golf championship with sub par 71's on a rain-swept course Monday.

Strafaci, who once held the United States public links title, went out in par 37 and romped home in 34, bettering par by a stroke. Intermittent showers and one short but severe downpour made the course hazy.

A stroke behind Strafaci and Doering came Ray Rios, 21, Poughkeepsie, New York, state champion; Robert Babbitt of Rochester, Mich., and chunky Eddie Hogan, a Portland boy who made good in his home town.

CROWDS LEADERS
Little Billy Bob Coffey, 21, of Fort Worth, Tex., hit the home hole with a 73, pined through a 38 and 27, Jimmy Moffat of Los Angeles also turned in a 73. He was out in 34 and home in 26.

Chuck Bruns, a veteran campaigner in both open and amateur golfing wars, came in with a 74, two over par.

One of the late finishers was Ross (Sandy) Somerville of London, Poughkeepsie, New York, state champion, who posted a 74, 38 and 27, Jimmy Moffat of Los Angeles also turned in a 73. He was out in 34 and home in 26.

Albert (Scotty) Campbell of Seattle, who is a Canadian amateur crown in 1923 and 1924, turned out with a 38-38-27, putting together 73-73-75 while Fred Hans, Jr. of New Orleans, who lost the Canadian title to Somerville about two weeks ago, carded 38-37-27.

Joe Thompson, former Hamilton, Ontario, golfer now playing in New York, posted a 75 to make a total of 39 and 36.

SCORING DIFFICULT
The sudden change in weather conditions made scoring difficult and caused several players to drop score needed to qualify for match play beginning Wednesday when only the low 64 may continue. Before the storm clouds gathered and ended the morning with rain, the start of play the experts thought 12 or 13 might be needed to qualify. Later predictions were that 14 or 15 might offer a fair margin of safety.

Champion Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati, doubled out a couple of 38's for 76, slightly better than the 40-39 of 19 of Charley Yates, Atlanta, and the 42-38-30 by Gus Muesel of Ponca, Ill., two experienced stars.

The defense again would be veteran Francis O'Neil, champion of 1914 and 1915, out of the competition. He had a "dud" of 44-44-65.

Ken Black, young shotmaker from the Shagwag golf club of Vancouver, B.C., finished the day with a gross duplicating Somerville's 77.

Black found trouble on the outgoing turn and needed a 41 to the turn. He recovered on the back nine to 36.

Joey Hogan, Billows and Babbitt, who posted a 72, 38 and 37, Harry Gowan of Seattle, member of the 1924 Walker team, and Roger Kelly of Los Angeles.

Fischer's 76 was matched by Eddie Heid of Denver, former public link and trans-Mississippi king, and Don Schumacher of Dallas.

GOODMAN HAS 77
Johnny Goodman of Omaha, who played his way to the 1923 national open championship and tied off as the tournament's favorite, ended up with a 64-47-77.

Leslie Lee of Everett, Wash., closed with a 64-47-77, tied for the first time in 1923. It was the lowest for the incoming class.
